

By popular demand, David Alabaster & Sarah Goodall have now produced a version of their 22 carol duets for violin and cello (originally published for 2 cellos). The arrangements of these favourites are all straightforward and provide an ideal opportunity for both beginners and the more experienced player to share some seasonal fun during the festive period.

David and Sarah are both keen amateur cellists who play together in the Stratford Symphony Orchestra and local chamber groups. They are also keen on the more informal side of music holding regular evenings with "felli celli" where a clear emphasis on the fun side of music making can be found.
